JACQUIE MENG

July, 2024

Jacquie Meng (b.1998, Hangzhou) works with painting, sound, and installation. Her works explore identity and self-portraiture through unconventional means, such as the migration of objects through time and space, the body, and traditions of mapping. 'I am interested in the way mythologies and traditions interact with landscapes, both real and imagined. I am inspired by my lived experiences: patterns and tiles I've encountered, objects I've inherited or come across, thoughts and scenarios I have imagined on a lazy morning. I am especially inspired by the idiosyncrasies of day-to-day life and jokes I've made or heard. These ideas run concurrent with experiences of diaspora and migration. I am interested in creating a visual language for a self-conceptualised identity, not only culturally and socially, but considering the impact of digital worlds on one's perception of identity and being.'

2024 has already been a big year for Jacquie Meng. She was selected for the 2024 Waverley Artist Studio 1 year residency, had her paintings included in the set design of Netflix hit series Heartbreak High, completed a book tour across four capital cities with Stray Press and has just returned from a whirlwind trip to New York. She will be exhibiting at the '24 Sydney Contemporary and will be having her first solo exhibition at Stanley Street Gallery. Meng completed her Bachelor of Visual Arts (First Class Honours)/ Bachelor of Art History and Curatorship in 2022 and was awarded the Brett Whitely travelling scholarship in 2021, she was a finalist in the churchie Emerging Art Prize at the IMA, and was a part of PICA's Hatched 2022. In 2023, she completed two overseas artist residencies, at Kunstraum in New York (April-July) and Pilotenkueche International Art Program Leipzig (July-September) and exhibited in the '23 Sydney Contemporary (September).
